About

Curious, strategic and driven. Just a high school graduate stepping into the real world as I start pursuing a career in Computer Science Engineering. I love reading non-fiction and history books but, I'm also a sucker for Logic and Tech, hence the career path. I love learning languages, currently learning Japanese and French. I also love learning about human nature and psychology. Wrote this and soon changing what I need to once I start applying my knowledge in the real world, preferably Business and Tech. In a nutshell, I do everything I find interesting :) Jack of all trades and master of none? I'm mastering Computer Science Engineering currently and that's my prime focus at the moment.
